

An excellent way to provide high-speed Internet services to those smaller communities where traditional means are too expensive to warrant investment.

And idea that deserves every consideration and one that will be overwhelmingly welcomed by the many people, and small business residing in smaller towns and rural communities across America..

Sincerely:
Helder Araujo